The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bozek 4,942,861 in view of Firestone 3,670,711.

Bozek shows a tiller for a crossbow, including a cocking lever having an upper arm 16 and a lower arm 38, pivotally connected at a forward location 98; the rear of the upper arm connected with butt 14; the lower arm foldable so rear portion 62 is proximate the butt. However, it is not clear if the lower arm is fastened to the butt. A fastener would be desirable to keep the tiller folded when it is not needed. For example, Firestone shows that a crossbow may include a lower tiller arm 20 with a snap fastener 22 to attach it to the crossbow when not in use. This fastener would be desirable with the tiller arm of Bozek to keep it folded. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the crossbow tiller of Bozek with a fastener, as suggested by Firestone.

Claims 2-6 & 30-33 are allowed.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
